The original campus was built in the early 1980s after being inspired by Silicon Valley, and it went on to become one of the first technology villages in the world. Since then, most of the campus has been renovated and an extension was added in 2000.

The Linnanmaa campus is fully carbon-neutral in all energy consumption and some of the buildings on campus also hold international LEED certificates for energy and environmental conduct. Read more about Technopolis' sustainability.
